1. Lesson Reflection

Start by connecting the lesson to your own situation.

In your own words, explain the main idea behind “How to Build a Strong Value Proposition for Your Business.” What does it mean for the business you want to build?

What do you already know about value proposition? List your current strengths, assumptions and questions.

Describe one real customer, problem or business situation where this lesson could be applied.

2. Practical Assessment

Score yourself honestly. A low score is useful because it tells you what to improve next.

Area	Score (1-5)	Evidence / Notes
Understanding
Evidence / research
Customer relevance
Financial awareness
Execution readiness
Risk awareness

What is the most important gap revealed by this assessment?

3. Apply the Lesson to a Real Business

Use this page to apply value proposition to a real or proposed business. If you do not yet have a business idea, choose a simple example such as a local service, online service, small retail business or digital product.

Business / idea
Customer you want to serve
Problem or need
Current solution / alternative
Your proposed approach
How the business could earn revenue
Main cost or constraint
Evidence you still need

What is the smallest useful test or action you can take next?

4. Decision & Action Plan

Convert what you learned into a small number of specific actions.

- I can explain the lesson concept in simple language.
- I connected the lesson to a real customer or business situation.
- I identified at least one assumption that needs evidence.
- I identified a realistic risk or limitation.
- I chose a next action that can be completed.
- I know what result or evidence I will review afterward.

What evidence would tell you that your current approach is working? Name at least three measurable signs.

What is the biggest risk or mistake you want to avoid after completing this lesson?

Write one decision you will make differently because of this lesson.

5. 7-Day Entrepreneurship Action Sprint

Keep the sprint small enough to finish. The goal is evidence and momentum, not busywork.

Day	Action	Result / Evidence
Day 1	Review lesson notes
Day 2	Research one real example
Day 3	Talk to or observe a potential customer
Day 4	Test one assumption
Day 5	Improve your idea/process
Day 6	Record what worked and failed
Day 7	Decide the next step

End-of-week review: What changed in your understanding or plan?

6. Notes, Questions & Evidence

Use this page for customer comments, numbers, links, observations, questions, calculations or ideas you want to revisit.

Completion check: I have finished the exercises, chosen a next action and saved any evidence I may need later.
